

HAPPENINGS IN THE STATE

NEWS

Ogden, Sunday, March 15.

WILL TAKE $375,000

Bondholders in Ogden Waterworks Company Still Hold Securities at Same Old Figure.

David Eccles is back from the east. While in New York, Mr. Eccles was the sponsor for the request from Ogden's bondholders, called on the holders of the bonds of the Ogden Waterworks company with a view to ascertaining if he could not induce them to make a better offer for the sale of the system to the city than the one which they quoted to the mayor, $375,000.

Mr. Eccles stated that the $375,000 offer was the best he could get. He is the standing offer, and that they did not directly make him any better proposition. Still, from Mr. Eccles' manner it is reasonably certain that he believes that the offer could be secured, but that he did not care to discuss the matter for publication. Mr. Eccles stated, however, that the offer for the sale of the system comprising the water works and sewerage system, interests, and the additional purchase of the local interests, amounts to a proposition down to practically where it was a couple of years ago when the offer was made, and the same price was offered. It was stopped by a number of citizens getting an injunction restraining the city from expending public money for such purposes.

MRS. CORBETT'S FIGHT.

Woman Tells Result of Crusade Against Vice.

To the Salt Lake Herald:

As more or less publicity, through the daily papers, has been given to my efforts to close gambling houses in Ogden, and as I have been told that I have been a valuable present to inform the people in Ogden of the conditions as I have found them.

Since starting what has been termed a "crusade" against gambling, I have had some strange experiences. Upon learning that my husband, through losses at gambling, was hopelessly involved in debt, I visited an attorney to learn the legal consequences of my husband's losses. I was told that the attorney would do more for me than anyone. Never having met Mr. Glasmann, I hastened to his office, hopeful that in him I might find a friend. Relating my trouble to him, I was told that my husband had lost his money in an open gambling house, and by fair means, he could do nothing to recovering it for me, as he had an agreement with the gambling house to keep the door open and played fair by the gambler. But that if I could prove to him that this money had been lost behind locked doors, or by unfair means, he would make me return it.

Estate and guardianship of Mary C. Thompson et al., minors; petition for order confirming sale of real estate set for hearing April 1.

FRUIT GROWERS MEET.

Provo, March 14.—There was a good attendance at the meeting of the fruit growers' convention this afternoon.

The following programme was rendered:

"Pruning," Thomas Barratt.

"Preparation of Trees and Land for Planting," B. H. Bower.

"Handling and Cultivation of Strawberries," N. J. Knight.

The following programme was announced for next meeting:

"Orchard Irrigation," E. V. Vincent.

"Cultivation and Grasses for Orchards," W. O. Beesley.

AMERICAN FARM NEWS.

American Farm, March 14.—The second ward gave a social at their meeting house last night in honor of Isaac Wagstaff, who recently returned from a mission to Europe. A nice programme was rendered and refreshments served. A large crowd was present, and it seemed to have an enjoyable time.

U. G. Merrill is selling his household goods today at auction prior to his moving to Washington. He expects to go to the state next week and engage in farming.

HOUSE'S NIGHT SESSION.

Some Business Done and Then a Burlesque.

The house session last evening was productive of slight results beyond the drawing of the names of the members of the session the house proceedings were turned into a burlesque, to enable everybody to part with good feelings to all concerned.

TO BUILD DAM AND RESERVOIR.

Farmers and Power People Issue Prospectus of Proposed Enterprise.

The committee representing the farmers and the Utah Light & Power company has issued its prospectus for the building of a reservoir and dam in Ogden valley, explaining the various details of the enterprise and the financial matters involved. The cost of building the dam and reservoir, not including the purchase of a site, is to be about $125,000, and the location is to be at the mouth of the present site of the dam of the Utah Light & Power company. The dam will impound about 3,000,000 cubic feet of water, or enough to guarantee a flow of 350 second feet per second, which is sufficient to irrigate 30,000 acres of land. The money for the project is to be raised by a series of coupon bonds to be issued by the project.

MAY CHANGE NAME.

Proposition to Call Weber County Fair Association Something Else.

The Weber County Fair association held its annual meeting yesterday afternoon in the county court house, and adjourned for four weeks without business. The president, Benjamin F. Wilson, was present and since the resignation of Edwin Dix, O. M. Russell has acted as secretary. The association did not regularly take up the consideration of reports of officers, but in a general way the condition of the organization was discussed and found to be in promising order.

Overture—The orchestra.

Howell Wasn't There.

Justice Howell was absent yesterday when the cases of about twenty-five saloonkeepers of the city, charged with operating slot machines in violation of the city and state laws, were before the court. The cases then were postponed to Wednesday, next, as there are four other cases wherein gambling is charged by the same complaining witnesses as in these cases—Mrs. Corbett—there will be other postponements.

Mail Clerks Will Go.

Superintendent Thrall of the railway mail service, eighth division, has recommended the adoption of the plan to consolidate the railway mail routes from Ogden to Reno and from Reno to San Francisco into one run. This will necessitate the removal of about thirty families from Ogden to San Francisco provided a recommendation is adopted, as it is almost certain to be. The clerks themselves have voted for the change.

Brown an Absconder.

It appears that Joe B. Brown, the salaried man for the George A. Love company who figured a day or two ago in the dispatches as the central figure in a case of mysterious disappearance, was an absconder from the Love company here, and a warrant has been issued for his arrest at the instance of that company's officers and placed in the hands of the sheriff.

Socialist Meetings.

The Socialist club has changed its time of meeting from Wednesday to Sunday evenings at each week. The meetings are to occur in the front hall of Union Labor hall, and the subject for tonight is "The Origin of Unions." Questions about Socialism will be answered. Benjamin F. Wilson will give a lecture in this city some time this week.

Charm For Mayor.

The members of the police department last night presented Mayor Glasmann with a handsome watch. The presentation occurred in the chief's office, and Chief Browning made the presentation speech, to which Mayor Glasmann made a fitting reply.

Neighbors Quarrel.

Carl Yeager was yesterday arrested on complaint of Mrs. Rose Calvin, who charged him with assault and battery. The case will come before Justice Wardleigh for hearing, he having issued the warrant.

MT. PLEASANT NEWS NOTES.

Narrow Escape of Herder From Attack of Vicious Cow.

Mr. Pleasant, March 14.—The Sanpete county teachers' institute is now in session with about fifty teachers in attendance. A public lecture was given last evening on "Abraham Lincoln," by Professor Rydahl, of Provo, who then addressed this morning's session of the institute. State Superintendent A. C. Nelson came here on the morning train and will speak to the teachers this afternoon, and this evening will deliver a public lecture. Following the lecture on Monday afternoon the school children will be at the lecture last night a dance was enjoyed by the teachers and by a crowd of young society people.

Mrs. Decker of Salt Lake and Roy Decker of Canada are here on a visit to Mrs. Decker's daughter, Mrs. W. E. Brown.

A company of men of this city are negotiating for the purchase of a well-boring machine which they will use throughout this section. The machine will bore 800 feet and if purchased will be put at work in the fields near here boring for artesian water, and the local oil company entered into with the local oil company to sink a hole in search of oil on their ground.

A report of the narrow escape of Chris Jensen, a sheep herder from this city, who is now on the west desert, from a vicious cow, was given yesterday. Jensen was cutting brush with an ax on the desert at the time and was attacked by the animal. He thought to defend himself with the ax and did not retreat, but when he struck at the animal he missed it. He soon found himself on the ground with the enraged animal standing over him and endeavoring to gore him with his sharp horns. He yelled loudly for help, and fortunately, this was not far away. His partner came up on a mule and found Jensen on the ground on his back with the animal trying to hook him, one horn being through his clothing under his right arm, the other along the right side of his neck and the boy helpless to defend himself. When the cow saw that Jensen was unable to turn her attention that way and Jensen escaped. He was badly bruised, but none of the injuries were serious, and he will soon be around again all right.

The first flood of the season for this part of the state, the snow melt, from the melting snows caused it. It broke away into a flood late in the afternoon and ran down through the town and about three miles south along the county road. Ditches were filled, crops were destroyed and much damage done to the road. In the fields along the road water stood several feet in depth in places, and the entire part of the valley looked like a running sea. Dr. Woodring of this city had occasion to pass along the road, and he saw a man and a dog in a ditch from which a large cuber had been washed out. The dog was the only one of the kind not in forty years has there been as much water in the place.
